

BACKGROUND

The Faculty of Built Environment and Surveying (FABU)

emerged in 2018 through the synergistic merging of two faculties: the Faculty of Built Environment (FAB) and the Faculty of Geoinformation and Real Estate (FGHT). FABU currently offers a total of 44 programmes comprising of 9 undergraduate programmes, 23 Master's programmes, and 12 doctorate-by-research programmes. These programmes span over 6 built environment fields of Architecture, Landscape Architecture, Materials Surveying, Geoinformation, Real Estate, and Urban and Regional Planning.

With the tagline "FABULOUS!", FABU boasts a unique blend of outstanding academic performance and active involvement in the practical world, made possible by forward-thinking educational programmes and strong collaborations with industry leaders and alumni.

FABU is made strong by a total of 182 academics and 91 support staff (PPP) who are dedicated to the pursuit of excellence, guided by five core values: CREATIVE, PROGRESSIVE, COLLABORATIVE, INCLUSIVE, and SENSITIVE. FABU strives to become the preferred destination for individuals seeking high-quality professional education and to generate graduates of exceptional calibre.
